KALAMATA FIGS

Kalamata's fertile soil and warm and temperate climate, combined with the local farmers' know how & care, contribute to the cultivation of these delicious, natural delights. Around 4,000 tons of figs are produced annually in Kalamata. Ours are hand-picked and having stayed under the sun and dried in a natural way, are packed under exceptionally high-quality standards. Each package contains absolutely no chemicals or preservatives - just the pure flavors and tastes of the Messinian land.

- Grown in the terrestrial & coastal area of Kalamata in the southwest Peloponnese, under excellent microclimate conditions
- Natural sundried on trees
- Hand-picked
- Thoroughly washed with warm water

MOUNTAIN FIGS

These figs are selected carefully from the island of Evia, a land of diversities and immense natural wealth. Over 2,000 tons of figs are produced annually in Evia. Their delicious taste derives from the combination of the fertile local land and microclimate which is affected by the air breeze of the Aegean Sea and the Euboean Gulf. Dried naturally under the sun, tasting these small treasures feels like Greek summer on a plate.

- Selected carefully from the island of Evia
- Slow drying naturally under the sun
- Hand-picked
- Free of methyl bromide & potassium sorbate
- Delicate skin
- Chewy texture & honey-like taste
